

New Zealand's political system – facts

Answer these questions by finding someone in the class who knows the answer. Record the answer and the person. A person can only be used ONCE in the scavenger Hunt

Question	Answer	Who
New Zealand's political system is a
In New Zealand we have universal suffrage, which is Elections are held in NZ every
The electoral system used in NZ to elect members of parliament and the government is called
The word 'Parliament' is derived from the French word parler which means...
The word 'Government' means
Our Parliament buildings are located in
Maori seats have existed since 1867 and are reserved for members of parliament who have been elected
New Zealand's head of state is
The parliament of New Zealand consists of the Queen of New Zealand and
The House of Representatives, which meets in Parliament House (next door to the Beehive) consists of The Queen's representative in New Zealand is
The Governor General has the power to
The title of the head of New Zealand's Government is
The Cabinet is a group of Members of Parliament (MP'S) who are selected by the Prime Minister to
The current Prime Minister of New Zealand is
The 'opposition party' is
The leader of New Zealand's opposition is		