

Seed Dispersal Cut and Stick

The seeds are scattered and carried by animals, either on fur or through digestion and excretion.	dandelion 	The seeds' outer shell dries out and pops as it shrivels, flinging the seeds out.	sycamore
burdock 	wind dispersal	tomato 	drop and roll
apple 	The seeds float and are carried by water.	squirting cucumber  <small>Photo courtesy of gailhampshire (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution</small>	The seeds are scattered and carried by the wind.
water dispersal	pea 	animal dispersal	horse chestnut
water lily 	Heavy fruits drop from branches due to gravity and break open when they hit the ground.	coconut 	explosions

Seed Dispersal Cut and Stick

Match the descriptions and examples to the name of each method of seed dispersal.

Name	Description	Examples	