Hector

Relation to the other characters - Kaira and Seerat

Hector is Ricky Baker's foster father. He did this unwillingly and only for Bella. His relationship with Ricky grew immensely, and became like father and son. He was Bella's husband. For many of the other characters he was known as the pervert, as everyone thought he 'kidnapped' Ricky. Towards the end he became a half friend of Kahu and her father as they were Ricky's new foster family.

Quotes from Hector - Seerat

“Me and this fat kid / we ran we ate and read books / and it was the best.”

“Pretty majestic aye?”

Themes this character displays - Seerat

Hector has bad anger management issues, and at the start of the movie he is displayed as an irritated old man who is a lot more independent. As the film goes on he seems to be more friendly, and starts to share a close relationship with Ricky Baker. This tells us that despite the issues Hector has had, he is willing to leave that behind for someone he is close with.

Relevance to real life - Kaira

Hector's life can be related to quite a few other people. For instance in Hector's early days he went to jail for manslaughter. As you can clearly see he does regret it later on. Witnessing someone die, especially knowing you killed that person can change you completely. Jail life even if it's for a small amount of time can change your perspective and the way you see things. Him being all grumpy and anti-social could just be a side effect or maybe a sign of depression, and the death of Bella is like a sad cherry on top. Many people go through this weather they just go to jail or witness something tragic like manslaughter. As movie carries on you see Hector opening up to Ricky, by doing so we see him happier and not as grumpy or irritable as before.
