

 Challenges bring us together -

As we face challenges together it brings us closer together, forging and strengthening relationships with each other. As we can see with Hec and Ricky in the film, surviving in the bush together after Bella's death has brought them closer together as they encounter many obstacles such as running away from the law/police and overcoming those obstacles together. We can see that as they open up to each other with Hec confessing to Ricky that he committed manslaughter. The occurrence of challenges bring us together happens in the forest/bush.

 Relevance to real life

In real life we face plenty of challenges almost every day, some of these challenges can't be conquered alone. These challenges require you to work with someone or some people even though you don't want to, but as you overcome them together and spend time with each other more you begin to get closer with them and open up to each other.

 Example

There is much evidence in the film that proves that challenges bring us together. Both Hec and Ricky were devastated to find out the news about Bella's death, but it helped them discover something that they both have in common. Running away from the law enforcement was another challenge that they both faced together as Hec was a wanted criminal and Ricky was to be taken away from Hec's care as he was considered to be an unsuitable caregiver for Ricky. This helped them bond together as they were sharing a unique experience together surviving in the bush. Ricky saving Hec's life was the main incident that helped them connect.
